Washington, 20th Sept 1844.

The undersigned, American Pienipotontiary, has reed the British statement without its weakening his confidence in the validity of the title of the United States.—That title rests on the right of priority of discovery by the United States and by Spain, the latter right transferred by the treaty of Fronda to the United States.—That title rests on the right of priority of discovery a not denied by the British Plenipotontiary in his counter state and. He assumes that Spain once possessed the right, but divested herself of it in 1790 by the Nootka S and Convention, and, therefore, could not transfer it to the United States. Having thus disposed of the Spainsh right, the statement opposes the United States right by her navigator, on the ground that Vancouver sailed further up the Columbia than ne did. This is more assumption. The Nootka Sound Concention contains not a word as to the claims of Spain; and it is on this Convention that the American claim spiriority of discovery by Lewis and Clare, by whom the Crimbia. (with the exception of its mouth, and a small portion near the occan) was first brought to the knowledge of the world. This is admitted, and Mackenzie's discovery is set off against it; but that does not affect the territory drained by the Columbia river.

The next is priority of settlement. We formed the first settlements in the intritory. Astoria was recognized as such at the treaty of Ghent, and was restored to us by that treaty. All I is is not denied; therefore, we are the party in possession, which was assumited by Lord Cautiersag, in 1816. The restoration of Astoria to us,—the convention of 1818.—the treaty of 1812.—all prea-regarding to the Facility, and the United States are discovered as a subject to our criminal to spain, by the treaty cells of the discoveries and they continued to the vo

Mr. Pakenham to Mr. Calhoun.

Washington, Jan. 15, 1845.

This letter states that all that has passed on the question of the Oregon boundary, has been communicated to the British government—that he expects soon to communicate its views—that no fairer mode of settling the question could be adopted than that of arbitration—that this he is authorised to offer to the United States government—that if this is assented to, the choice of an arbiter can be subsequently settled.

Signed,

Hon. J. C. Calhoun. Mr. Pakenham to Mr. Calhoun

Mr. Calhoun to Mr. Pakenhom.

Washington, J. n. 21, 1845.

This letter states that the President cannot accede to the cflor of arbitration—that he hopes the question may be settled by the negotiation now pending—that it is not advisable to resort to any other method, so long as there is hope by negotiation.

Signed.

Public Men and Measures—Fall of Van Buren—
Its Causes—The Spirit of the Times—The Great
Tribunal of Popular Feeling to which Politicians must come—Our Foreign Relations.

Every thing is quiet now, and will be till the holydays are over. The first dash of excitement about the message has passed—the flash has gleamed, and the bolt is coming. In the mean time, there are no uncer ain indications of a new spirit in the present Congress, which will unsettle, in its progress, the EVENINGS AT HOME.

YANKEE SULLIVAN'S OPERA SALOON.

No. 9 Chatham Street, Opposite the City Hall.

the downfall of Mr. Van Buren, the country has been in a transition state-a wide, and almost universal dissatisfaction prevailed among the masses of the democratic party, in regard to the measures that were resorted to to secure Mr. Van Buren's re-nomination in '40, and still more in regard to the attempt to bring him out as the candidate at the last campign. There was too much machinery in his way of governing the country. Enthusiasm was no part of his nature, and he could not carry with him the sympathy or enthusiasm of the people. He should never have been nominated in '40, as the event proved—for beyond a question, James Buchanan, or any one of the stars of democracy, whose names kindle a flash in the eyes of the people, would have aroused that same enthusiasm that swept on the triumphal car of old Tipp-cance. For the country wanted only a change of men, and not of measures. This is proved by the history of the last five years. Whig measures have gained no triumph even with a wing Congress; and the "sober second thought of the people" has sent back an overwhelming democratic majority to the present Congress, which is a pretty clear indication, that, so far from desiring a return of the federal days, they wish rather to blot the last vestige of the British power, with the British spirit, from our public councils and irom our shores. No—let not the leaders of the old Hartford convention, with its "doors closed against the rab-ble"—its "sons of proud and nobly born Englishmen"—let the wings give up all hope of ever again winning power, on any issue they ever made—they cannot bring the people of this country to adopt either their principles or their spirit. Their principles are opposed to the real interests of this country; their spirit is at war with the very genius that guides the destiny of the new world. They are essentially retrospective. Like the aristocracy of England, they fix their hopes upon the past, and see nothing but images of disorder and the reign of tyrannical majorities in the fature. They dread, and they distrust, the people. They never had, and they distrust, the people. They world have been swept from the field like chaff from the summe the democratic party, in regard to the measures that were resorted to to secure Mr. Van Buren's re-nomination in '40, and still more in regard to the attempt terson many an anxious hour and many a paintul struggle.

"Democracy is progressive"—has been said a thousand times, so christians say prayers in churches and as the Mehommedon repeats when he falls in the dust—"Allah is great." But there is a meaning in those words which will thrill the soul of the future historian of this age. If we had time, it would be "love's labot" to show how democracy has advanced in this country since the foundation of the Government. We shall say something about it by and by, but now there is no time; there are surring scenes yet to be enacted by the present Congress.

The movements of the Administration, of the Cabinet, of Congress, now strike cords that vibrale almost as quick in the streets of Paris, and along the horoughfares of London, as they do along our
